

2019 SAAM Scholarship Awards

Samantha L. Butler

Samantha remembers the first spark for archery at summer camp. A spark that drew her to seek out an archery shop, equipment and coach to get her started. Samantha has participated in NFAA and IBO competitions.

She feels her most difficult challenge was when she experienced a change in eye dominance. The dedication and hard work it took to adjust to the changes has not only made her a stronger archer, but has enabled her to bring that understanding of hard work into other aspects of her life.

Samantha will be completing an Associate's Degree at the Community College of Rhode Island and has plans to continue on to major in early education to reach her goal of becoming a teacher's assistant

Megan Regensburger

Megan is a young woman of many achievements whose dedication and enthusiasm for archery is infectious. She has excelled in numerous local and national archery competitions. Meeting these challenges has taught her important lessons that she has applied to academics and life in general.

Megan will be studying for a Bachelor's Degree in Marine Biology & Oceanography while attending Bangor University in Wales, Great Britain.

She is looking forward to meeting new friends and will continue shooting competitively as a member of the Bangor University Archery Club.
